Requirements for Admission to a Major in Applied Behavioral Science:

1. Complete ABSC 100 and ABSC 304.
2. Earn a cumulative GPA of 2.3 or higher in ABSC 100 and ABSC 304.
3. Application to the major should occur during the term in which the admission's requirements are completed (i.e., spring, summer, or fall). That is, once students have completed ABSC 100, they should apply to the major during the term in which they enroll in ABSC 304 (see Andrea Noltner, 4007 Dole). If students do not meet the admission's requirements or neglect to apply for admission during the term in which they complete ABSC 304, they may petition the department's Undergraduate Admissions Committee for permission for late admission (see Andrea Noltner, 4007 Dole).

Please initial each of the following statements to indicate your understanding:

_____ I understand that I will be declared a major in the Department of Applied Behavioral Science when I have completed ABSC 100 and ABSC 304 and met the minimum 2.3 GPA requirement in them (see Andrea Noltner, 4007 Dole).

_____ I understand that if my GPA is below 2.3 in those courses, I will not be admitted to the major and may be required to withdraw from courses that are restricted to majors.

_____ I understand that if my GPA is below 2.3 in those courses, I may repeat either or both of them in order to meet the GPA requirement and petition the department for admission during the term in which I complete the requirement (see Andrea Noltner, 4007 Dole). The University's course repeat policies apply to the GPA calculation. (See article 2.2.8 at <https://documents.ku.edu/policies/governance/USRR.htm#art2sect2> for information about the course repeat policy.)
